This project is about the software development process: to be able to predict what will be created next, to be able to select the right method for implementation of specific task. It gives us a unique opportunity to share ideas, experiences and expertise. Description of the files included: - updateshield-express-1.1.0.zip - updateshield.phar - manifest.phar - updateshield.manifest The use of this software product is easy, because it includes built-in support, all the necessary tools and a full manual. Update Shield works with the PHP platform, but is available for installation on other platforms also. A PHP script which implements the automatic update system which can, for example, be performed on your development machine for testing the automatic update system or for creating a installation file. Then this installation file is uploaded to a server, where it is started. The application records the status of each version of the application update. This is used for finding the new version in the queue for updating, provided that the user has enabled the Auto Update of the application. The queued updates are started directly after the installation is completed. The update is recorded as follows: Check the update source Records an update version and an exact time of the update of the application (in the format "App Version Num1 (Date, Time)" for example: "1.0.0 (2018-01-01, 10:00:00)" - The first number specifies the version of the application; the second number the version of the update and the third number the exact time of the update. Verifies update's license The license of the application is checked for every update version. If the license is not valid, the update is rejected and the reason for the rejection is written. If the license is valid, the update is accepted and the error code is written. No content of a rejected update is transferred to the queue. Instead, the app gets the number which is associated with this update. If the number is greater than the current update in the queue, a new update is started and the current update number is used for recording this new update. If the number is smaller, the previous update is left in the queue. The reason for the rejection is not transmitted. Start the update process Enables the user to choose between the automatic update (for testing purposes) or to enable the automatic update (the new update gets scheduled and is begun after 09e8f5149f

The room temperature acid-base behavior of a chiral ruthenium(II) complex bearing the (R,R)-L-enantiomeric form of 2,2'-bipyridine-4,4'-bis(1-phenyl-2-oxa-4-azaspiro[4.5]dec-3-one) (H3L) as the axial ligand in solution was studied using spectroelectrochemistry, UV-Vis/NIR spectroelectrochemistry, and density functional theory calculations. The physical properties of the complex in solution are different from those of the analogous inorganic complexes. The axial coordination sphere in solution is influenced by the protonation and deprotonation of the bipyridine moieties of the complex. The neutral ruthenium(II) complex is poorly soluble in water and shows a crystalline-to-amorphous phase transition upon
