Q: Django Rest Framework - Check if ModelChoiceField matches a specific value I have the following view: `class BannedUserListView(ModelViewSet): queryset = User.objects.all() serializer_class = ListUserSerializer def retrieve(self, request, *args, kwargs): queryset = get_queryset() banned_user_ids = request.query_params.getlist('banned_user_ids') for banned_user_id in banned_user_ids: queryset = queryset.filter(id=banned_user_id) serializer = self.get_serializer(queryset, many=True) response = self.get_serializer_class(self).get_serializer_context().get('request') \ .from_request(request) \ .get_data(serializer) return response` This view is taking the list of banned user ids from the user and checking if they are in the database. If they are then return a list of them, if not return no users. This is all working fine, and I'm getting my users back. What I would like to do now, is return a list of the users that have banned user as stated, but only if they have banned the user. So if I have User A and User B. User A has banned User B, but User B has not. return a list of
