Download.Q: 3D noise for heatmap (in Matlab) I would like to create a heat map like the one in the figure (left) but for Matlab. I was wondering if someone could provide the necessary code for me to achieve this, given a matrix of data and a set of 1-D coordinates. A: The easiest way to get this is to use the heat() function in Matlab's image processing toolbox. You will just need to create a threshold image, and then apply heat to it. I suspect that the original article that you're citing (and any others that might exist) would make the same suggestion, although they might not make it very clear. Here is the documentation for heat, the section you seem to be interested in is available here. // This file is part of libigl, a simple c++ geometry processing library. // // Copyright (C) 2016 Alec Jacobson // // This Source Code Form is subject to the terms of the Mozilla Public License // v. 2.0.
